Veterans Day

By Sadie Greene Pilot

Do you like Veterans Day? Because I sure do! One reason Veterans Day is so special to me is because my grandfather is one. Have you seen a photo of someone in an army camp? Well, I have, and let me tell you, it does not look enjoyable. It makes me so glad they are serving so I can be free. To me, Veterans Day means Patriotism and Freedom.

Veterans Day means many different things to me, but a main one that comes to mind is Patriotism. Let me tell you about it. First of all, when I think of Patriotism I think of the American flag. With 50 stars and 13 stripes, I think of our flag first when thinking about Patriotism. Next, Patriotism makes me think of our colors red, white, and blue. All on our flag, I think of these colors when thinking about Patriotism. Lastly, I also think of our pledge. Now, most kids say it every morning. Therefore, getting tired of it and think of is as a regular thing, but it is really so much more. It is pride of our country. As you can see, I think of our flag, our pledge, and our country colors when I think of Veterans Day.

Now I also think of freedom when I think of Veterans Day. Wanna hear about it? To start off, freedom, when I think about it, means all the lives lost to make, and keep, our country free. I also think of love when thinking of freedom. But, it is not just love for our country that our Veterans have to have, but also love for our citizens and friends. Last but not least, I think of Bravery. Think about just how much bravery veterans have to have to risk their only lives in war. To sum it up, Veterans Day makes me think of freedom and that makes me think of all the lives lost for it, love, and bravery.

Remember, Veterans Day is to celebrate our veterans who made our country free. We celebrate our Veterans, who have to have lots of Patriotism and freedom. You should be very thankful our veterans are serving so you can be free.
