How to know when to be tested for hepatitis

Submitted

May is Hepatitis Awareness Month. Millions of Americans have chronic viral hepatitis and most of them do not know they are infected. Hepatitis Testing Day is an opportunity to remind primary care providers and the public who should be tested for viral hepatitis.

The Alabama Department of Public Health encourages awareness of the following facts about viral hepatitis:

1. Hepatitis A, hepatitis B and hepatitis C are all different diseases.

Each type of hepatitis is caused by a different virus and spread in different ways. Hepatitis A is spread through person-to-person contact and does not cause long-term infection, although it can make people very sick. In 2017, several states (California, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Utah and West Virginia) were affected by a hepatitis A outbreak that occurred primarily among persons who were homeless, persons who used injection and non-injection drugs, and their close direct contacts. Hepatitis B is usually spread when blood, semen, or other body fluids from a person infected with the hepatitis B virus enters the body of someone who is not infected. Hepatitis C is most often spread when blood from a person who has hepatitis C enters the body of someone who is not infected.

2. Chronic hepatitis is a leading cause of liver cancer.

Hepatitis B and C can become chronic, cause serious damage to the liver, lead to cirrhosis, and even liver cancer. More than 60 percent of liver cancer cases are related to hepatitis B or C.

3. Most people with chronic hepatitis do not show immediate signs of infection.

More than four million Americans are living with chronic hepatitis in the United States, but most do not know they are infected. Many people live with chronic hepatitis for decades without symptoms or feeling sick.

4. Getting tested could save your life.

Lifesaving treatments are available for chronic hepatitis B and new treatments are available that can cure hepatitis C. Getting tested is the only way to know if you are infected. If you think you have been exposed to hepatitis B or C in the past, ask your family physician or primary care provider about getting tested.

Another way to find out if you should be tested is to take the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Hepatitis Risk Assessment online at <https://www.cdc.gov/hepatitis/riskassessment/index.htm>.

Recent blood drive results in potentially 225 saved lives

SUMMERDALE — Local blood donors saved as many as 225 lives by giving blood during Baldwin EMC's Spring Into Action drive on March 15 in Orange Beach and April 26 in Bay Minette. The staff from LifeSouth Community Blood Center collected a total of 75 pints of blood, each of which can benefit as many as three people.

The co-op elected to divide the drive between two dates and their two district offices this year, in an effort to reach members from the southern and northern parts of their service territory.

"We traditionally host Spring Into Action at our headquarters in Summerdale, which is our most centrally located office," says Mark Ingram, Baldwin EMC's vice president of corporate services and public relations. "However, Summerdale is still a bit of a drive from Bay Minette or the beach. Hosting it at our district offices gave our members and residents in those areas an opportunity to donate without distance being a factor."

In addition to blood donations, non-perishable food was also collected for local distribution.

Ingram says the Spring Into Action drive is a part of Baldwin EMC's vision to be community involved. "As a member-owned cooperative, we're called to do much more for our community than just provide electricity. Our goal is to improve the quality of life for those we serve, and events like this are one of the ways we can do that."

Baldwin EMC is a member-owned electric cooperative serving more than 75,000 accounts in Baldwin and Monroe Counties in southwest Alabama, including Alabama's Gulf Coast. This institution is an equal opportunity provider and employer.
